Brief introduction of your research experience:

In 2013, I obtained my PhD in Materials Engineering, specialized in rheology of polymer composites. Thereafter, I serve as senior lecturer in Universiti Malaysia Perlis. For the past few years, I actively lead and co-lead several projects funded by Ministry of Education, Malaysia. The projects are mostly related to polymer composites. I had published several publications in international journals and SCOPUS index conference proceedings. Currently, I am one of the associate editors in International Journal of Nanoelectronics and Materials, and Editorial Board Members in Acta Scientifica Malaysia. Besides, I am also a regular reviewer for several international journals such as Journal of Applied Polymer Science and Journal of Vinyl and Additive Technology.
